Dear Voces Angelorum Supporters:

With all the gloomy skies out there these days, aren't you ready for some heavenly voices? It is time to begin another year of Voces Angelorum, and we have a lot planned. Voces Angelorum will be 10 years old in 2010!

Voces Angelorum will be singing in support of the Capital Area Healthy Start Coalition's, "Walk to Remember" on October 13th. This is a ceremony of remembrance for families who have lost pregnancies or children. Additional information is available at www.capitalareahhealthystart.org.

Voces Angelorum will be singing for Seniors at Westminster Oaks and the Palmer-Monroe Center this fall, and caroling at the Senior Event in Southwood in December. These are just some of the numerous ways Voces Angelorum helps support our community.

On Sunday December 6th, Voces Angelorum performs two concerts at the Goodwood Museum and Gardens. There will be a 3:00pm Matinee for the family and kids and a 7:30pm concert for adults with a wine and cheese reception to follow. Come out to hear the Angels in the garden and stay for the free tours of Goodwood (information on ticket prices can be found in the attached flyer).

Voces Angelorum will have an evening concert at 7:30PM, Friday, December 18th at Good Shepherd Catholic Church. Come enjoy a great fall concert to kick-off your winter holidays!

We will wrap up the Fall season, with our December 20th concert at Grace Lutheran Church at 5:00pm. This is your last chance to hear Voces Angelorum before we turn 10 in '10. Remember, this is only the cliff-notes of what Charlie and the Angels have scheduled!

Voces Angelorum will also be releasing our next CD this Fall, just in time for Christmas. Please feel free to pre-order your CD now at a discounted price. Information is include with this letter.

Looking ahead to the Spring, Voces Angelorum will celebrate our 10th Anniversary, and we have a lot of fun concerts and events in the works. Stay tuned for details or check out the website at <http://www.vocestally.org>.

This year will be another challenging year for us not only because of the busy schedule, but because of the state of our economy and its effects. The city and county have cut grant funding, especially for the arts. Even in face of this, Voces Angelorum is expanding its commitment to the performance of arts in the community and public service to our community. Voces Angelorum will be working with the Rickards Spanish department this spring to bring the Spanish language and music to Tallahassee youth. How can we do all this? Only with your support! Please consider supporting Voces Angelorum's commitment to the arts and public service to the community.

Sincerely,

Michael S. Watson, President, Voces Angelorum
